WASHINGTON, May 22.—The navy announced today that U. S. planes "completely destroyed" Japanese-held Attu Island and that the battle of Attu Island has entered "the final phase." The navy also said that lightning fighter planes yesterday bombed and strafed enemy positions in the Chichagof Harbor area, setting fire to a fuel depot.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Crack American troops were busy today mopping up remnants of Japanese forces on Attu Island while U. S. warships knifed through surrounding waters on the alert against a possible enemy evacuation attempt.

Only bad weather has prevented American forces from snuffing out what remains of enemy resistance, according to navy men. The Japs were trapped in a small area in the vicinity of Attu village.

According to Secretary of the Navy Knox the 12-day-old American campaign on Attu is a success except for "liquidating" or capturing the entrapped enemy.

PA NEW OBSERVES

James Gibson, director of streets, today stated that all thoroughfares leading to local cemeteries will have been repaired and put in condition for Memorial Day travel. He said it is impossible to secure road oil because of government restrictions.

Pittsburgh headquarters of the OPA reports that a large number of agents for the organization are checking driving in Western Pennsylvania for violators of the pleasure driving ban, which was ordered by the government this week. Many gasoline ration books have been confiscated, it is announced.

Sunday evening will be baccalaureate night for another large group of Lawrence county high school students, the exercises preceding actual graduation being scheduled in four or five schools of the county for the evening.

With all of the war news of the day being of a much better trend than for many months, Lawrence residents should be inspired to buy more war bonds at the present time. More than ever war bond purchases are necessary now to keep the war news favorable. Do your part.

While it is sometimes customary to have the formal programs in observance of a holiday on Monday, when the date comes on Sunday, such will not be the case in observance of Memorial Day this year. The program is arranged for Sunday, May 30.

Today's sunshine meant much to Lawrence county farmers, who are far behind in their work because of the incessant rains of the past month and a half, and a few more days like this will find them all as busy as beavers, getting their crops in.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 22.—Following up the new government edict against pleasure driving, Louis G. Feldman, chief enforcement officer for the Pittsburgh OPA, announced today that "scores" of gasoline ration books were confiscated last night because motorists persisted in non-essential driving.

Feldman revealed that city police were co-operating with federal agents in an intensified double campaign to rid the streets of pleasure drivers.

ACTIVITY REPORTED
ALONG WIDE FRONT

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
MOSCOW, May 22.—German positions from the Caucasus to the Leningrad front were pummeled today by Soviet artillery in a Red Army campaign to check any Nazi efforts to organize for a summer offensive.

The Soviet high command in its noon communiqué reported that two German tanks, eight machine-gun nests and several blockhouses were smashed during the night by artillery fire northeast of the Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk.

Reds Tighten Lines
Under cover of artillery barrages the Russians tightening their lines around the naval base in the West Caucasus consolidated newly-won positions.

West of Moscow on the central front 300 Germans were said to have been killed.

At the lower end of the southern front west of Rostov artillery destroyed 10 blockhouses.

Around Leningrad in the northwest a company of German infantry was wiped out and nine blockhouses demolished.

Heavily Shelled
A concentration of German forces was heavily shelled in the Sevsk area, west of Kursk on the southern front. Two battalions of Nazi troops were dispersed by the withering hail of steel.

On another sector of the southern front, the high command announced, 50 camouflaged tanks were shelled. Fires and explosions resulted when the well-aimed shells found their mark.

Five blockhouses were demolished by artillery fire in the Kalinin area northwest of Moscow while snipers were said to have slain 78 Germans.

On the Volkhov front the Russian big guns smashed 11 blockhouses and snipers killed 80 of the enemy.

The Soviet navy and air force were credited with cornering and sinking a German torpedo boat and a patrol ship.

TUNIS, May 21.—(Delayed)—The French protectorate of Tunisia today was returned to French control by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied forces in North Africa.

The ceremony, culminating in a victory parade, constituted the final chapter in the campaign which drove the Axis forces into the sea and was witnessed by a galaxy of land, sea and air commanders whose joint efforts fashioned the German debacle in North Africa.

Control of the protectorate was placed in the hands of Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud and the Fighting French, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, was not present, but his picture appeared for the first time in places of vantage in the streets.

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 22.—An increasing tempo in the aerial warfare in the southwest Pacific was reported by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today in a communiqué announcing the smashing of 18 Jap aircraft and destruction or damage of 13 enemy landing barges.

In stepped-up assaults against island bases north of Australia, American Flying Fortresses, B-25 Mitchell bombers and Allied attack planes encountered stiffening opposition from Jap planes and anti-aircraft defenses.

Swooping down over New Britain Island in the face of fierce anti-aircraft fire and batteries of searchlights, heavy bombers blasted both the Vunakanau and Rapopo airbases at Rabaul. These assaults, (Continued On Page Two)

LONDON, May 22.—British Mosquito bombers raided Berlin for the third straight time last night as other bombers and fighters of the Royal Air Force smashed at communication lines in France and blasted a convoy in the English channel, the air ministry announced today.

The raid was the 67th of the war against the Reich capital and the sixth in nine nights.

Tenth Night of Raids
The diversified assaults in which two Axis ships were sunk and a third damaged in the raid on the convoy in the channel, marked the 10th consecutive night of operations in the devastating cycle of allied aerial raids.

Speech at Norwich, Capt. Harold Balfour, under-secretary of state for air, said that absolute superiority of the allies in the air when they invade Europe will "enable us to repeat the Tunisian victory."

The air ministry communiqué revealed also that mines had been laid in enemy waters. Among targets battered were railways in the Orleans area of France.

THREE-MAN PANEL
REPORT PRESENTED

By WILLIAM E. ZIMMERMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Racing against time the War Labor board today took up the report of its three-man panel in the coal controversy which was viewed as leaving the way open to consideration of the demands of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers for a wage increase.

With the extended strike truce expiring nine days from now, the board was expected to meet daily, including Sunday until a decision is reached, probably by the middle of next week.

The lengthy, factual report of the panel made no recommendations for settlement of the two and a half month's old controversy, but in various instances gave some moral support to Lewis' demands for his 540,000 miners.

Handed down after the panel conducted an investigation of the fight between the UMW and the mine operators, the report pointed (Continued On Page Two)

A. F. Of L. Ends All C.I.O. Peace Efforts

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The A. F. L. terminated all efforts to negotiate peace with the C. I. O. it was disclosed today as an aftermath of John L. Lewis' move to lead his 540,000 miners back into the federation.

The executive council of the federation, now meeting in Washington, will draft a statement placing blame for the collapse of the labor peace talks on the C. I. O. At the same time, it was learned, the federation will insist in the future that if the C. I. O. wants peace it will have to allow its unions to return to the A. F. L. one by one under the latter's terms. This would be tantamount to outright capitulation by the C. I. O. rather than a negotiated peace, once so urgently requested by the White House.

(International News Service)

DETROIT, May 22.—An estimated loss of 600,000 man-hours in tank, gun and bomber parts production was marked up against the Chrysler Corporation strikes today, as only a handful of almost 28,000 striking workers followed announced back-to-work dictation of union leaders.

Simultaneously, Dr. Edwin A. Witte, chairman of the War Labor Board here, professed himself confident that the walkout was over.

"I believe the UAW-CIO officials are acting in good faith in promises to get the men to return," he said. "However, Saturday is a very bad day. Undoubtedly many of the workers are taking week-end holidays. From all indications, full production will be resumed Monday."

Six-State Area Battling Worst Floods Of Years

Mississippi And Missouri
Rivers Spread Over Millions Of Acres

ESTIMATE 125,000
ALREADY HOMELESS

(International News Service)
Murky sheets of flood waters continued to ooze out over a vast portion of the breadbasket of democracy today.

Though there were reports of flood tides receding slowly here and there, uncounted millions of acres of farmland inundated in a six-state area of the midwest, where much of America's food and that of the United Nations is produced.

The total of those made homeless, already estimated at 125,000, increased by the hour as army personnel and state militiamen were rushed to aid in mass evacuations in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Huge Crop Damage
The overall damage to crops was next to impossible to estimate, but in Illinois alone, where the mighty Mississippi and Illinois rivers were on the loose, state authorities reported that at least 350,000 acres of grain would have to be replanted.

The situation was most critical at Beardstown, Ill., where the city council early today ordered the immediate evacuation of all women children and infirm from a town of 6,500.

Below St. Louis, the Mississippi pointed against its dikes as far south as Cairo, Ill., and roared over its banks in areas unprotected by levees.

The Missouri river above St. Louis, blanketed thousands of acres and imperiled land throughout its entire lower valley.

Eastern Oklahoma suffered property damage estimated at nearly $300,000 and saw more than 5,000 persons made homeless as the Arkansas river covered the entire valley in that area with a muddy sea. Where the Grand and Verdigris pour into the Arkansas at Muskogee, the width was reported from six to eight miles.

Muskogee, the state's third largest city, was forced to ration water to its 32,332 residents in the face of a threatened famine, the city pump station had to be abandoned and less than a 24-hour supply was on hand.

Historic Vincennes, Ind. given up as doomed by army engineers, was believed saved when the Wabash river slashed two breaks in a levee on the Illinois side. This eased the pressure on the Vincennes dike, but it cut a wide swath through Lawrence County, Ill., threatening to engulf 44,000 acres.

The newest victories, which included 19 German and Italian planes shot out of the skies in gruelling aerial battles and an additional 67 destroyed on the ground, were registered yesterday during sweeps against targets on Sicily, Sardinia and the Axis island bastion of Pantelleria.

It was the third successive day of all-out fight for aerial superiority (Continued On Page Two)

Now this is the day when the girls gather round with garlands of myrtle in hand, for this is the day when May Queen is crowned, the fairest of all in the land. And the lassies cavort on the broad shady lawn, and dance round the May pole, hey hey, for this is the one time when queens rule the school, and it's eighty-four, bawling today. So hail to the queen with her court of young queenlets or is that the right term I ask, but what we are getting at simply is this, it's May Day, a de-lovely task.

WAR COMES TO GERMANY

AT THE END of the First World War the line of devastation paralleled the German frontier. From the English Channel down to the border of Switzerland and deep into Belgium and France the area of destruction extended. Cities, towns and villages were in ruins, great cathedrals and masterpieces of architecture, such as the Library of Louvain, were shattered remnants, forests and fields had been transformed by bursting shells.

But on the other side of the Rhine the neat, well-ordered communities remained undisturbed. Every home was intact, every orchard and vineyard a thing of beauty.

The German people, although beaten and impoverished a quarter of a century ago, escaped the war's major agonies, those involved in the reduction of communities to rubble. They never learned the real horror of war, which is one of the reasons why they were so eager to take the old road to death and misery when Hitler gave the nod nearly four years ago.

Failure to bring home to Germany some of the misery endured by France and Belgium, by Russia and Serbia from 1914 to 1918 undoubtedly was one of the major mistakes of the victorious Allies. The mistake will not be repeated. Germany is repaying today and will pay even more heavily in the future for its wanton plunging of the world into war.

Today, as bombers level German cities, as cities and whole industrial areas are digging out from under the ravages of floods from shattered dams in the valleys of the Ruhr and the Eder, as terror fills the heart of the people while invasion draws near and the inevitability of defeat becomes inescapable, the German people are learning something about war.

But their education is just beginning. They have yet to feel the full fury of Allied power, which will leave Berlin as ghastly a spectacle as Rotterdam, and Leipzig, Hamburg, Hanover and Munich as pitiable as Coventry and Warsaw. The war is gradually finding its way to Germany and it is quite likely that in consequence something will happen to the martial spirit of a traditionally warlike people.

FASHION KEEPS PLACE
In all the welter of war, with myriads of former activities of mankind now in complete eclipse, it is interesting to note that fashion succeeds in edging into the limelight from time to time, in further evidence that clothes cannot be consigned wholly to oblivion.

When the Duchess of Windsor arrived in New York, she was lodged in a hotel suite not far from another occupied by Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek. Within a few minutes the newspaper reporters saw each pass through the lobby to her rooms and duly recorded these facts:

"The duchess wore a black wool tailored suit and a black satin blouse with black velvet bow at the neckline. Of black velvet also was her calot. It had a nose length veil. In her jacket lapel bloomed a boutonniere of white tuberoses.

"The lady from China wore a blue flowered dress and light colored jacket. In her hair she wore a white flower attached to a face veil."

FOR OVERWHELMING AIR POWER
The Navy supply bill, passed by the House, includes $4,500,000,000 for aviation. The Army appropriations request from the President for nearly $72,000,000,000 contains $23,655,481,000 for the air force. That represents something like $6,000,000,000 above previous plans for aircraft production.

This is notice to the Axis that what's been happening in Hitlerized Europe isn't a circumstance to what is coming; that Mr. Eden's assertion that bombing of Nazi land will soon be on an hour-to-hour basis was no idle threat.

Massive air attacks may or may not knock Hitler out of the war, but, as Mr. Churchill says, the experiment is worth trying.

Unquestionably the greatly expanded American air production program looks to this. But will it provide swiftly essential increases of our air power on every front where we face the enemy? It is to be hoped that it will. Japan has established a two-to-one air superiority in the Southwest Pacific. In China Allied air forces are weak.

Vast appropriations alone will not build planes. The task rests finally on workers and managements of our aircraft industry to make our air forces so overwhelmingly powerful that they will sweep our foes from the skies everywhere as they did over Tunisia.

REOPENED MEDITERRANEAN
Announcement by Marshal Sir Arthur William Tedder, Allied air chief of the North African region, that the Mediterranean is now open to the sea commerce of the United Nations is news that cannot be over-emphasized. Mediterranean shipping will be of vast aid in preparations for the next major blow against Axis Europe from the south.

Steps that might not have been possible for months, because of insufficient transport, may now come in weeks. Air blows sapping the strength the Axis need to make even a token resistance to the development offensives, are already being struck in Italy and neighboring islands. When the time is ripe to follow up these blows with infantry penetration, preparations will be adequate.

The United Nations have large concentrations of supplies in French North Africa, in Egypt, in Gibraltar, in the Persian Gulf area and elsewhere. Heavy petroleum production is available in the Middle East, on Bahrain Island in the Persian Gulf and at other points. It is probable that high octane refining plants are already producing in that quarter. The strain on commerce from the Americas and Britain is to be relieved appreciably without denying the Allied offensives any needed supplies. Vital products of warfare can now be obtained more quickly and more dependably.

The unavailability of the Mediterranean as a route of safe transport was a heavy handicap to the Allies. A major defeat has been administered to the Axis without the use of this route of commerce. With its free use, the fortunes of the Allies can be expected to improve more rapidly.

For years Italians coveted the Mediterranean, now they fear it. Hitler has signed a decree perpetuating himself in office. The Allies will see to it that it becomes as worthless as all the agreements der fuhrer ever entered into.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CARE NEEDED TO GUIDE CHILD

In this column, I have constantly urged parents not to make themselves sneaks or detectives with their child, especially not to put him on the witness stand, at three or sixteen. I would still hold to this advice.

But this does not mean that you should not know where your child is, nor protect him from undue temptations and moral dangers. If you will talk to any judge dealing with hundreds of children from ten to fifteen, especially girls at these ages guilty of sex offenses, you will learn that when the youth or parents is asked how it happened that the parents allowed the child to face such dangers, the answer often will be that the child had left home to go to a neighbor's house, even to a scout meeting, church choir or some other equally approved place. Perhaps the parents was home or at some worthy gathering herself at the time. Or, alas, the parents may have been at some late gathering, or just causing. What is most shocking is to learn that so many of the young girl sex-offenders are from "good" families.

Make Deception Difficult
In these days, the parents who really cares will not make it so easy for her young son or daughter to be deceptive.

If I had a youngster of this age-group now, I would see to it that some responsible adult accompanied him or her, after dark, to and from his destination. In some instances, I would require the child to telephone me from the place where he or she is supposed to be. In some other instances, even with the older adolescent, I would make clear beforehand that I could be expected to drop in at any time, he not knowing when, frankly stating just once, without argument, the reason, especially in areas near military or naval centers.

As you know, a soldier never knows when his officer will appear for inspection of his quarters. Accordingly, he knows he must always be ready for inspection. He does not consider himself being spied on. Why not a similar discipline for the innocent child?

Mrs. Myers and I would also try hard to make our home a place to which many youths would often come for good times, when one of us parents would be home. We also would try to prevail on other parents of our close acquaintance to cooperate in this. Furthermore, we would try to induce churches, schools and other agencies in our community to provide properly directed recreation places for these children for an afternoon or so a week, and for the older adolescents on a Friday or Saturday night.

Many children from 10 to 15 will not welcome such protection. Naturally so. How are they to know what is good for them? Yet parents hence they will call their parents blessed. Most others not so protected will in days to come place the blame right where it belongs.

Parents of tots: Begin now to discipline your child so he will be ready to be properly protected later. Let me show you how through my special bulletin, "How to teach to meaning of NO," to be had without cost by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. My boy 11 years of age objects to coming in from the street when the lights appear. He says the other children are allowed to stay out much longer.

A. You are responsible for the physical and moral welfare of your son. Have no arguments with him. Make clear to him that on every evening, until otherwise directed, when the street lights appear he will make a bee-line for the house. Set effective penalties if necessary. Do your best to make his evening in the house interesting and profitable, welcoming his playmates there on certain evenings, especially week-ends.

Who saw the books I keep about. Then in reply, "Have you," asked I, "Worn all your various friendships out?"

"Have you run all the laughter through. Shared all the heartaches and the tears. The jest and song, and courage strong. Of those you've cherished down the years?"

"Have you no good friend kept aside. Among the number you have gained. To whom you'll turn when heart-aches burn? Are all your friendships dried and drained?"

Entertainment should be as simple as practical nowadays. Even parties should be as informal as possible. Dinner clothes for both men and women—the women wearing a long skirted dinner dress, the man a dinner jacket—take care of dressy evening affairs.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:14. Sun rises tomorrow 5:39.

Most all conventions will meet now where liquor is not rationed.

We have often noticed that loafers eat more than men do who work hard.

An Ohio landlord is being held on the charge of murder for shooting a tenant over an argument about an eviction notice. About the only way some tenants can be evicted now is by shooting them.

About all some birds do about their jobs is holding them. Doing a good job is the real thing now.

IMPOLITE FOREMAN
Down at one of the aircraft plants a workman caught his blouse in some machinery and was whirled around half a dozen times before the foreman could get the machine stopped. The workman collapsed and the foreman, fearing the worst, rushed up to him.

"Speak to me, speak to me!" he cried.
The workman picked himself up and looked disdainfully at the foreman.

"Why should I?" he asked. "I passed you six times and you didn't speak to me."

Maybe you are one who thinks human nature ought to be changed. If so, how would you like to have the metamorphosis begin with you?

However general the shortages of meat, vegetables and fruit, it hasn't become necessary yet to ration our grapes.

We have learned a lot of things during this war that we had better not forget in the future.

SIGN THIS ONE
A fan, who did not sign his name or initials, sent us today's best short rhyme:
My fuhrer lies over the ocean.
My fuhrer lies over the sea.
In fact he's the world's biggest liar.
Wherever he chances to be.

A noted female writer says the best way to get along with in-laws is not to live in the same house with them. It might also be better not to live in the same neighborhood with them.

So far we haven't seen many men wearing straw hats, not even the ones three or four years old.

It is claimed that there is a large amount of cheese on shelves that will spoil. That ought to make a lot of limburger.

Jim: "Hey, you look sick. What happened to you?"
John: "Last night I dreamed I was eating shredded wheat, and when I woke this morning, most of my mattress was gone."

Records show that the average widow loses her money in eight months. It takes relatives that long to borrow it.

How long would be a long war?
Gentle spring has eaten quite a hole in next winter's coal supply.

We would never like to see women wear clothes so they could put their hands into their pockets. It's bad enough to see a lot of men with their hands always in their pockets.

There is nothing wrong with working on Sundays if it will help win the war.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Fathers and mothers, who have sons in the armed forces, should get a bit of comfort from what a son wrote home to his folks. Jacob Philip Rudin, a rabbi, now an army chaplain, is the author of a letter that has brought a new thought to fathers and mothers. Following are excerpts from the chaplain's letter:

"Mother and dad, don't you worry about me, and don't feel sorry for me. I'll be all right. I'm off to help in the most important job a fellow ever had to do. I'm going to defend America. I don't mean the America we studied about in geography books and history books and political science texts. That isn't the America I'm going to defend.

"I guess what I'm actually fighting for is love, for parents, for brotherhood, for the friendly light shining in the front room window. Those are my Americas.

"So don't you sit around crying and grieving for me. Keep a grin on your face and a song in your heart for America. Just remember that as long as I am thousands of miles away so is the enemy. This is his back door I'm on. He's not on yours. Which is exactly the way I intend to keep it."

Rationing just comes natural to some people.

MORNING AFTER
"Wowie, Blondie, what a time you and I must have had last night! I'll bet we stood up in front of a dozen bars?"

Yes, and that's not all we stood up in front of, mister.

"What do you mean?"
"We also stood up in front of a preacher!"

It takes a diplomat to enter a barber shop and come out with no more than he went in for.

Women's feet are said to be growing larger. A few years ago a report like that would have been startling.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE
Little Alphonse, Teacher, the devil died.
Teacher: "What makes you think so?"
Little Alphonse: "My father told me so yesterday. We were taking a walk, and saw a funeral pass. And daddy said: Poor devil! So he's dead!"

If the allies can't cooperate now, the peace slogan again will be: "To the victors belong the spoils."

The only thing to be said for poison gas is that we'll know Hitler sees his finish when he starts using it.

Conservatives had better do their utmost to win the war. They won't be rid of Roosevelt till it's over.

Roosevelt needn't worry about revolt in Dixie. There is nothing wrong that calumel and word Democracy won't cure.

Integrity without piety is still respectable, but piety without integrity always seems nasty.

All the poor man said was "forgive us for 1942" and they strung him up for it.

The treasury in a fine spirit of optimism has ordered 120 carloads of paper for pay-as-you-go tax forms and still talks of getting started by July 1.

But we still haven't got a plan and if one comes out of the Senate-House conference committee it is apt to be a two-headed monster which nobody... least of all Ruml... would want to claim.

No—when and if we get the real thing it will be after 44.

Inside Washington

Army, Navy To Become Secondary To Air Wing
Creation Of AAFSAT Held Trend Toward Unity
Business Of Making War Has Become Changed

By CHARLES P. STEWART

(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The "AAFSAT" is just beginning to be referred to in the news columns. Without loss of time we may as well begin trying to learn what institution this particular collection of initials stands for.

Initialization is an editor's way of compacting the troublesomely long names of many of our governmental, commercial and other large organizations into short space for convenience in headlining and reading. The system has reached a point where it verges on abbreviating the Christian religion as the "CR", leaving the reader to guess what is being mentioned.

Many of these contractions gradually have become adequately recognized. In the course of years we have grown to accept the "GAR" as meaning the Grand Army of the Republic, the "A. F. L." as meaning the American Federation of Labor, the "C. I. O." as signifying the Congress of Industrial Organizations and today nobody needs to be told that the "UMW" stands for the United Mine Workers of America. It is like the initials "BC"—Before Christ. We are so accustomed to such initializations that we pretty nearly understand them better than we do the full names that they are representative of. Of late, though, initialization has gone cuckoo.

The war developed it up to the 11th power.

Creation of government commissions, administrations and offices progressed at such a rate that, initialized, you can't keep track of them. The differences between the "OPA", the "OWI", the "MPC" and oodles more of them.

For instance, the other day I encountered half a column of journalistic comment relative to the activities of the "SSB" and "OASST".

"SSB" (Social Security Board) was clear enough, but the "OASST" was what confused me.

Now for the "AAFSAT". It seems that this translates into the Army Air Forces School of Applied Tactics.

We have had an Army and a Navy department, pretty independent of one another. Their functions did not automatically mix to any extent. Now they do mix. Aviation mixed them.

In fact, it has become somewhat predominant over either or both of them. Well, the "AAFSAT" function is to effect a merger. With Aviation in a majority of the three.

Before this war got fairly started aviation was considered an Army and a Navy adjunct—each. To date it is reckoned that THEY are aviation branches, with the flying command as the main thing.

They are due to be subordinated to it as a couple of collateral arms.

Combining them on that basis is rather difficult, however, since the purpose of the "AAFSAT" is to be done, to a certain extent, by degree.

Nevertheless, it is agreed by experts that the business of war is transformed. The Navy already is being rebuilt. It is to consist of transportation craft—plane carriers largely. Land fighters are to be available for the occupancy of terrain already under control from overseas.

The idea is that we need not two or three departments but a single department of the whole thing. The "AAFSAT" is to be it.

Big Gen Hume Peabody summarizes: "Sea, air and ground coordination—of the over-air command."

In short, the "AAFSAT" is to be a new department, Army and Navy cabarets are to snuff out, gradually. They are to become mere undersecretariats.

The War Department will be one unit with the aviation boss as supreme chief.

The administration laid down the same terms for Ruml (or Rommel)—unconditional surrender.

All the poor man said was "forgive us for 1942" and they strung him up for it.

The treasury in a fine spirit of optimism has ordered 120 carloads of paper for pay-as-you-go tax forms and still talks of getting started by July 1.

But we still haven't got a plan and if one comes out of the Senate-House conference committee it is apt to be a two-headed monster which nobody... least of all Ruml... would want to claim.

No—when and if we get the real thing it will be after 44.

Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1943)

By The Baltimore Sun

President And The Press

WASHINGTON, May 22.—A GOOD many newspapers are becoming concerned over what is happening to their business in Washington. They have reason to be. A long series of incidents culminating in the silly Hot Springs spectacle of armed soldiers at the instance of the President, preventing reporters from the legitimate pursuit of first-hand news makes plain that a precedent for controlling the press has been set which will not be easy to push aside. If this can be done at the first international conference there is no reason it cannot be done at all of them.

ADD TO this the cheap press conference wit by which Mr. Roosevelt tried to justify the restrictions by making the correspondents appear a set of middle-aged Peeping Toms, and even the most obtuse will agree that Washington journalists are being damaged personally as well as professionally. Moreover, the damage is being inflicted deliberately by a man who, for reasons most politicians understand, has given every evidence of animosity toward the press as a whole.

IN CONNECTION with this situation there are several things to be said. One is that the American people are not in the least excited about what is being done to the newspapers, and editorialists pointing out the threat to the freedom of the press for the most part leave them cold. They ought to be excited, but the fact is they are not.

It is true the politicians and individuals opposed to the President register indignation, though not very hotly; and those who are partial to the President are pleased. But the great American public is neither sympathetic nor concerned about the troubles of the pressmen with the President. Neither the damage to their personal standing nor the loss of their professional prerogatives can be made a vibrant political issue. Mr. Roosevelt will lose no votes by kicking the correspondents around, and he knows it.

People outside of the newspaper business are more amused than angered.

WHAT IT comes down to is that if the newspapers are not to degenerate into taking what they are handed by the government agent in the room, they are not to be treated with decency, they have got to make their own fight—and a real one. No one is going to do it for them. They cannot—and should not—rely on either the public or the politicians. There is no doubt that with a proper spirit, they stood together, the correspondents, backed by their papers, could put up a battle that would make it impossible for anything like the Hot Springs hamstringing to be put over on them or for any public man to treat them the way Mr. Roosevelt does.

Looking At Life

You may have read the story yesterday about the lady who tried for weeks to get a maid and had absolutely no success.

Then she put an advertisement in the paper which offered not only "room, radio, good salary and nice home," but promised that the maid who got the job could "wear my mink coat for her day off."

She had six hundred replies and the telephone kept ringing so much that she had to keep the receiver off the hook for a week.

The story must be true. It was distributed by all press associations. Name and address were given.

It's funny—but it has its serious side, too.

Whenever a few people get together these days they talk about the great difficulty in getting maids.

Why is it so hard to get them?

I think I know the answer. Too many people have forgotten that servants are human beings.

What is there about housework to attract decent, self-respecting people?

Nothing much.

No social life, no stimulation, no pleasant associations.

Up early in the morning, breakfast, luncheon, dinner, children, an interfering boss, late parties—through at eight, nine, ten—alone in her room, dead tired, ready to fall into bed.

On Thursday she meets her friends. Eight hours a day, a five-day week, at five o'clock the job is done, the evening is free, and usually twice as much money as the housemaid makes.

Why should a girl be a maid if she can do anything else?

It's your own fault, you housewives, that you can't get any servants.

The best proof is the kicking you do the backaches you have, when you have to do the work yourself.

If you tried kindness, and tolerance, if you treated your maids the way you wanted to be treated when you worked in offices or stores, maybe they'd like their work as well as you liked yours.

I must show her this.

Soldiers Off Duty Must Obey All Air Raid Precautions

Col. G. H. Cherrington Issues
Order Affecting Shenango
Camp Personnel

(Special To The News)
GREENVILLE, May 22—Military personnel of Shenango Depot are required to observe air raid precautions and regulations while away from the Army post unless required to be absent for performance of their official duties. Colonel George H. Cherrington, Commanding Officer, has ordered.

Upon the sounding of the blue warning signal (a two minute steady blast) soldier pedestrians have been instructed to be alert and prepared to move to places of safety. The red signal (a series of short blasts) is a command to take shelter in the nearest designated shelter area, unless the soldier's duties require him to be at large.

Uniformed members of the armed forces of the United States and her allies, as well as State Defense Guards, need not take cover while on duty, but unassigned soldiers are expected to carry out the general rules governing air raid precautions. Army officials have ordered.

Smoking is prohibited, and flashlights may be used only if equipped with special filters. No outside lights are permitted, unless as part of active defense measures sanctioned by air raid authorities, the latest regulation states.

The season for the taking of shrimp in southeastern Alaska has been lengthened 15 days to allow fishermen to begin operation on April 16 instead of May 1, according to the U. S. department of the interior.

Need License For
Some Special Sales
By New State Act

In the recent session of the Pennsylvania General Assembly, a law was passed which places certain restrictions upon "closing out sales, fire sales" and the like. The act is of importance to merchants and Roger Jewett, executive vice president of the Greater New Castle Association has made copies available to members of the association.

The bill introduced by Representative Murrau provides that any merchant who wishes to conduct a "bankruptcy sale, receivers' sale, closing out sale or sales of goods damaged by fire, smoke or water," must first procure a license which will be for a stipulated time. At the expiration of the license the merchant can no longer continue the sale under the terms set forth for the life of the sale.

The bill is designed to protect the public from unscrupulous persons who foist inferior goods upon the public under the guise of the various types of sales set forth.

CLENMORE SCHOOL COUNTY TIN CAN CHAMP PAST WEEK

St. Michael's And Thaddeus
Stevens Again Winners
Among City Schools

Clenmore school, long a contender in the tin can collection campaign in the past week with a winner. Glenmore had a 100 per cent collection with an average of seven cans per pupil which puts them in first place in the county. In the city, the same two schools came through again. St. Michael's in the less than 300 enrolment and Thaddeus Stevens in the more than 300 enrolment.

Mary Brincko, age 11, grade 5 of St. Michael's school was the individual winner with 1637 cans. Ruth Thompson, age 10, grade 5-1 of Thaddeus Stevens was high in her school with 369 cans and Matilda Green, age 13, grade 7 was high in Clenmore with 115 cans. These three will be interviewed Tuesday night over Station WKST at 6:20 p. m.

Other High Scorers

Three city schools came through with a 100 per cent record. St. Michael's, Thaddeus Stevens and West Side. In the county, Clenmore, Wampum, New Wilmington and Chewton hit the perfect mark. Two schools made a return this week which represents several weeks collection and does not count in the weekly contest. Sunny Avenue turned in 12,000 cans, a fine contribution and Madonna school turned in 3,444, which is also a handsome collection. The grand total was 68,045.

Further Action In Gas Shortage In East Coming

Number Of Proposals Being Considered To Meet
Gasoline Crisis

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
WASHINGTON, May 22.—Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown's promise of further "drastic" action to alleviate the east coast gasoline shortage was expected to materialize today in a readjustment of commercial vehicle rationing as OPA and ODT officials resumed conferences on the current crisis.

Representatives of the two agencies—John Rogers, director of the motor transport division of ODT, and Paul O'Leary, OPA rationing chief—have been in close consultation for two days on the issue and are expected to announce a decision today.

Severe Crisis
It was understood that proposals made thus far by ODT have been rejected by OPA as insufficient to cope with the severity of the present crisis, which finds filling stations dry in countless communities along the eastern seaboard.

The OPA chief announced when he ordered a resumption of the pleasure driving ban a few days ago that subsequent drastic moves would follow if that step alone proved insufficient to meet the mounting seriousness of the situation.

Brown said then and other OPA officials have since reiterated that there will be no cancellation or reduction in A, B and C rationing. That leaves only the T coupons of trucks, buses and taxis—ODT's jurisdiction—to deal with in effecting further gasoline savings.

"There's no question that something has to be done and it is going to be done soon," an ODT spokesman said.

Proposals Discussed
OPA and ODT officials were understood to be discussing a series of proposals, among them being the following:

1. A cut in the five-gallon value of T coupons.
2. A system of priorities to provide gasoline for the most essential commercial vehicles.
3. A "selective cut in T coupons, designed to hit non-essential vehicles the hardest."

It was understood that ODT frowned on an "across the board" cut in T coupon values since that would penalize the efficient commercial vehicle operators—who get along on the least possible gasoline—as severely as those who waste fuel.

ODT, it was believed, would prefer a "selective" cut, if there was time to put such a program into effect. However, the urgency of the situation demands immediate action, officials said.

Tuesday noon's luncheon meeting of the New Castle Lions club will be devoted to a business session with the hearing of reports from all committee activities. There will also be initiation of new members.

The campaign for election for the office of Tail Twister is becoming very hot, and dark horse may come out in the next few days.

Once again the Control Center is making an appeal for men telephonists who are willing to give a few hours per week to the task of staffing the telephones of the Control Center.

The Army and the Civilian Defense Council insists upon around the clock service in the center and men are used particularly from midnight to 4 a. m. and from 4 to 8 a. m. It is a duty that lacks glamor and public acclaim but it is a duty that must be performed.

Men volunteers who are willing to devote four hours per week to this important task are asked to call G. Earl Williams at 760-J.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

There are a good many who deeply dislike the President's patronizing affability when he is in a good humor and resent his sneers and gibes when he is in a bad one. When he makes his Peeping Tom comparisons they would like to indicate resentment, either by retiring as a body from the conference or at least to refrain from loudly laughing at the Presidential drolleries. Abjectly to swallow disparaging personal references along with professional indignities seems to them to indicate a lamentable lack of self-respect and to invite contempt. They know, too, that if a politician in the White House can treat them contemptuously there will be a disposition among those in lesser places to do the same. It is the sort of thing that can grow and spread, which is one of its serious aspects.

BUT, THESE resentful reporters are in the minority and they get slight support from their colleagues. Some of these applaud everything the President does and are referred to as his "stooges". Others either don't regard his remarks as insulting or are indifferent to being kicked around. Bearing no resentment at being treated roughly at one conference they eagerly come back for the next.

The President then being in good humor, they all have a jolly time. There are few newspapermen here now like the late Frank Simonds, who said—and believed—that "the only way for a newspaperman to look at a politician is down." The plain fact is that unless there develops a fixed determination among the correspondents as a whole to assert and insist upon their professional rights and aggressively resent personal disparagement—and unless their newspapers back them up—their rights will continue to shrink and their personal standing diminish.

IT IS easy to dismiss all this with a wisecrack and to laugh, as the New Dealers do, over "the way the Boss handles the newspaper boys." In the words of one jobholding friend—"kicking them one day and making them like it the next." But the fact remains that, as a result of what is being done, newspapers and newspapermen are losing ground now they may not be able to regain. That is serious for the press, but despite their lack of understanding and concern, it is also serious for the people.

JOHNSON BRONZE

Looks to the Future

TODAY'S BATTLELINES are TOMORROW'S AIRLINES

The world has grown smaller during the past year. Aviation has annihilated distance . . . changed what was formerly a month's journey into a matter of hours. Now, you can reach any spot on the globe within sixty hours from our local airport.

America's future is in the sky. When our men returned from the first World War they knew and appreciated the value of the automobile. Many of them experienced their first ride while in uniform. The net result was the creation of the automotive industry . . . the development of mass production. The automobile quickly changed from a luxury to a necessity.

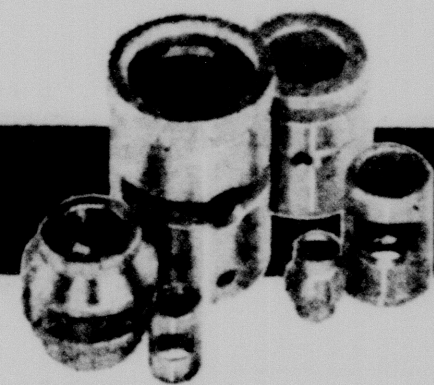

When our fighting men return from the present conflict they will be more than world-travelers . . . they will be world-minded! When the last gun has spoken, these experienced young men will pilot their "Flying Fortress" to the distant parts of the world, loaded with merchandise of peace instead of the destruction of war.

Johnson Bronze has kept pace with this progress. A good percentage of our present production is for the Aviation industry. When peace returns we will continue to supply this expanding market . . . continue to grow . . . continue to provide steady employment to the citizens of our community.

Congress Leaders Agree To Seek Two Months' Recess

Believe Members And Country Would Benefit By Vacation In Hottest Months

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 22.—Both Democratic and Republican congressional leaders Friday tentatively agreed to seek a recess of Congress from July 1 to September 1.

"I am working toward this end, and I believe that it would be in the interests of both members and the country," said Democratic Senate Leader Barkley.

The two-months recess during the hottest summer months first was proposed by Republican Senate Leader McNary. Speaker Rayburn and both Democratic Leader McCormack and Republican Leader Martin of the House have endorsed the plan.

Congress is required to complete July annual appropriations bills by July 1 which is the beginning of the new fiscal year. Other important legislation, leaders believe, could be postponed until after September 1.

Major problems now before Congress include the Connally anti-strike bill, extension of the reciprocal trade law, Kilday bill to defer married men from the draft and the anti-racketeering measure.

Fine Program Is Presented At Program In The Cathedral Friday Evening
Last evening's entertainment, sponsored by the Valley of New Castle Consistory, in The Cathedral proved most enjoyable, and was attended by a crowd of over 1,000 persons. In-Chief Howard Geary stated today.

The Cathedral choir, directed by Dave Rees, presented the "Yankee Doodle Minstrels," with C. W. Hermon Hess as interloper, and De Lace Cole and Lou Pearsall as endmen, and they did their usual capable job in these capacities.

There were special numbers by the Jean Bartsch dancers, and a special music picture and dancing afterwards.

New gasoline rationing restrictions prevented those from outside the city attending, or a record crowd would probably have been on hand.

Court attendants were Anne Halick, Geraldine List, Jean Anne Covert and Wilma Leeper. Gifts were presented to all the members of the court by the junior class.

The newly-crowned pair then led their "subjects" in the grand march. Credit for the success of the prom is due several industrious committees led by Miss Fern Cooke, who was in charge of the coronation, Milton Patterson, principal of the school who directed the decorating, and Fred Broad, chairman of the prom committee.

New Castle High Captures "Commando Meet"

Tony Razzano Steals Show; Union Second

Football Star Trudges Over Soggy Course In 4 Minutes, 23 1/2 Seconds

UNION'S VERONESI IN SECOND PLACE

Trundling over Union Township high's mud-mired 1,200-yard obstacle course in the staggering time of 4 minutes, 23 1/2 seconds, piano-legged Tony Razzano stole the show as New Castle high copped the first annual Lawrence County Scholastic "Commando Meet," Friday afternoon.

The flashy football star chipped 16 1/2 seconds off the 4:40 mark posted by speedy Joe Veronesi, of Union, to walk off with the Larry Perelman individual cup. Kenny Hanna, also of Union, finished third, being clocked at 4:44. Mt. Jackson's Lyle Fox, scammed over the obstacle-infested layout in 4:46 to finish fourth.

Union Is Second

The red and black clad troupe averaged 4:52 to emerge with the Jack Gerson trophy. Union trailed the Canes with a 5 minute average. Mt. Jackson was third with a 5:07 mark. New Wilmington, Shenango Township and Bessemer were unable to compete due to school exercises or transportation difficulties.

A nasty wind and a soggy course hindered the contestants. Despite this, the schoolboys excited a surprisingly large gallery with an amazing display of moxie. Eight heats were run.

Coch "Pat" Patterson, who constructed the twisty setup, was well-pleased with the outcome and announced that the affair will be held annually.

Results follow:

First heat: William Bees, Union 5:23; "Bill" Green, New Castle 5:01; Steve Kallas, Mt. Jackson 5:25.

Second heat: Joe Veronesi, Union 4:40; Gaylord Lutz, 4:53; Ray McCurley, 4:52.

Third heat: Ken Hanna, Union 4:44; Tony Razzano, New Castle 4:23 1/2; James Reese, Mt. Jackson 5:02.

Fourth heat: Andy Korb, Union 5:23; Bob Lee, New Castle, 5:01; Ed Bradley, Mt. Jackson, 5:30.

Fifth heat: Harry Foreman, Union 5:06; Jack Wallace, New Castle, 5:01; John Robinson, Mt. Jackson, 5:06.

Sixth heat: Jack Pattison, Union 5:14; Harvey Theiss, New Castle 5:01 1/2; Paul Schneider, Mt. Jackson 6:10.

Seventh heat: Phil Clark, Union 5:14; Howard Kelley, New Castle 5:00; Don Harman, Mt. Jackson 4:59.

Eighth heat: Art Schelar, New Castle, 4:53; Lyle Fox, Mt. Jackson 4:46.

Junior High Meet Monday Afternoon

New Castle's annual junior high track and field met is a Monday afternoon attraction booked for Taggart stadium starting at three o'clock.

George Washington and Mahoning seek to succeed Ben Franklin as champion.

Showings thus far indicate that Franklin will cop the event again.

Bill "Flash" Hollett, Boston Bruins versatile handy man, has passed the 200-point mark in his National Hockey League career.

He is a success because he will take chances, and he is to be commended for that, at least as long as it works—like it did Monday night when he defied the most revered tradition of the conservative manager by juggling a winning lineup to meet a left-handed pitcher and beat the Cardinals, 1-0.

He took a gamble there, pulling out good hitters to set in presumably weaker ones because he figured—and as it turned out rightly—that he could combat Howie Pollet, the Cardinal southpaw.

There was a better and more striking example of his gambling once before. The situation called for a pinch-hitter to squeeze a runner home with the all-important run from third. Durocher could have nominated any one of a number of gents for the task, but stepped into the clutch himself, bunted perfectly, and won the ball game.

If the Cards plan to beat out the Dodgers, they will have to do it with baseball that will beat the chance-taking kind Durocher will throw at all and sundry. By this time he figures himself a successful manager and this is the kind of season when nobody can be blamed for failure, with the result that the setup is made to order for a gent who is looking for opportunities stick in the unexpected to grab a game here and there.

At Heart, Leo Still Gambler

Dodger Manager Successful Because He's Game; Takes Many Chances

DUROCHER TYPE TOUGH TO BEAT

By LAWTON CARVER

SPORTS EDITOR

NEW YORK, May 22.—Leo Durocher took full blame for the gambling, which, seemingly, got out of hand toward the finish of last season and some insisted it cost the Dodgers the pennant.

Still A Gambler

However, the point is that Durocher was and remains a gambler—as a manager. I haven't the faintest idea whether he would match you even a penny now. For all I know he hasn't looked at a poker hand or a bridge hand or laid a deuce on a horse in years. But deep inside of him he is a gambler anyhow, and if you doubt it look at his baseball.

He is a success because he will take chances, and he is to be commended for that, at least as long as it works—like it did Monday night when he defied the most revered tradition of the conservative manager by juggling a winning lineup to meet a left-handed pitcher and beat the Cardinals, 1-0.

Concert Of High School Orchestra Heard Friday Night

Student Orchestra Under Joe Replogle Presents Program Of Popular Appeal

Bringing to a close its year's work, the senior high school orchestra, under the direction of Joe F. Replogle, on Friday evening in the school auditorium, presented a program of unusual popular appeal to an appreciative audience. Its performance was one of which the school and New Castle may well be proud.

Among those who attended the performance of the 55-piece orchestra were a number of members of the orchestras of the city grade schools, who took advantage of the opportunity to hear a full orchestration.

John Carlin, talented pianist, who is a member of the graduating class at high school, was the soloist with the orchestra in Tschakovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1 Op. 23 in B Flat Minor." His rendition was much enjoyed by the audience.

Selections on the program, in addition to the Tschakovsky number, were: "Knightsbridge March", from "In Town Tonight", from "London Suite", by Eric Coates; "Libuse Overture", by B. Frederick Smetana; "Springtime, Valse Intermezzo", George Drum; "Red Man", "White Man" and "Black Man", from John Philip Sousa's "Dwellers in the Western World"; "March of the Toys" and "American Fantasia", Victor Herbert; "Turkey in the Strand" David Guion, and selection from Richard Wagner's opera, "Tannhauser", J. S. Seredy.

ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURIES IN CRASH

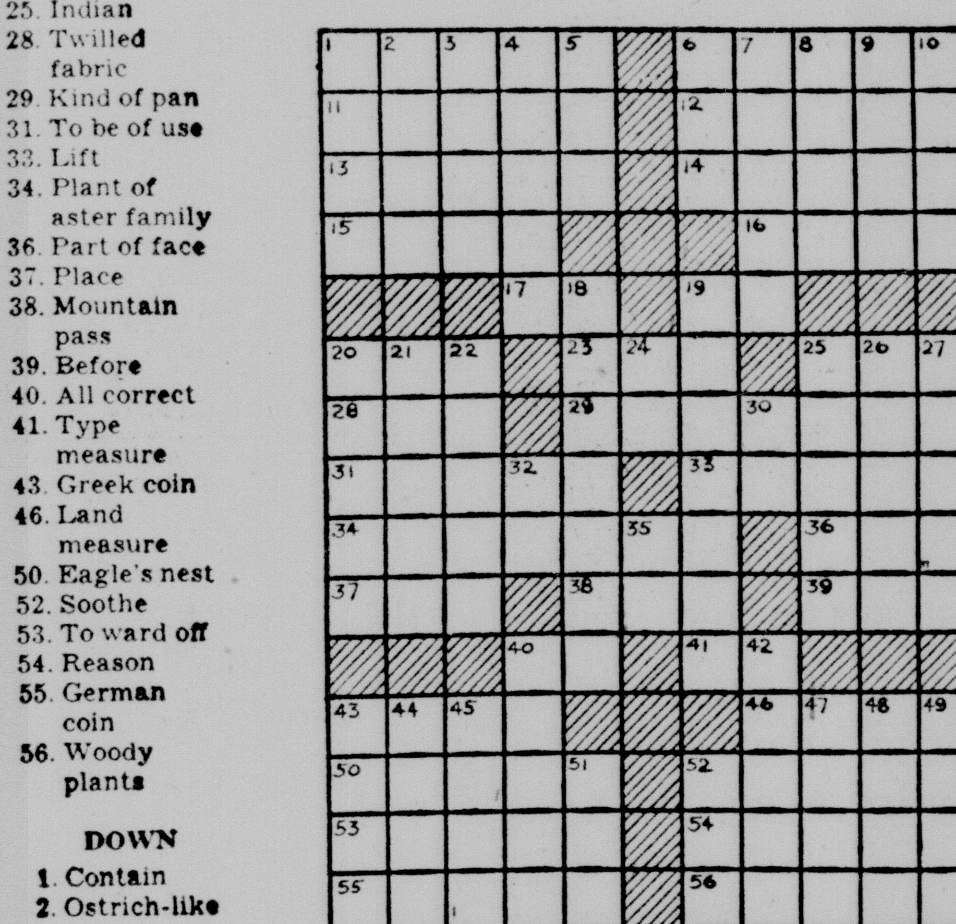

Mrs. Sarah Shaffer, 47, R. F. D. No. 1, was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital at 4 o'clock this morning for a severe laceration of the right knee, and abrasions of the body, received when her automobile was sideswiped by another car between Ellwood City and Zelienople. The car left the road, crashed through a guard rail and overturned three times. The driver of the other machine did not stop, it was stated.

OCD NOTES

Activities of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

It is the earnest desire of the State Council of Defense that the organization and training of rescue squads be stepped up immediately, as this branch of the service has been neglected in many communities, according to a bulletin received from Ralph Cooper Hutchison, executive director of the OCD.

As a result of bombings and other acts of war, rescue work has been made difficult and dangerous, calling for the services of quick thinking, strong and skilled men, capable of performing their specific duties under the most trying circumstances. These men should be experienced or trained in first aid, handling of the proper tools to effect a safe rescue, shoring and breaching walls, tunneling and excavating. They should be trained to tie and use appropriate knots as the occasion demands, be able to splice ropes and be trained in the proper preparation and use of block and tackle.

Experience has shown that there should not be less than 10 men to a squad and one squad to each 5,000 population which would result in 10 squads or at least 100 men in New Castle. These men should be carefully selected so that the personnel of the rescue squad will include a commander, a carpenter, electrician, fireman, plumber, welder or burner, structural steel worker, handymen (2) and helpers (2).

The local OCD office has received information as to the equipment needed, duties of the squads, proposed equipment for the rescue personnel and the proposed equipment table for the rescue squad.

No doubt all of this will be discussed fully and quick action taken. The city has a rescue squad which no doubt will immediately study the proposals of the state director and State Fire Coordinator Charles E. Clark.

Martin Emphasizes Freedom Of Worship

More Religious Observance Needed To Win War, Says Governor

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 22.—Gov. Edward Martin on Friday called for a "return to God-fearing ideas of our fathers" which, he said, "will do more to win the war than any other single thing."

The chief executive made his plea for greater religious observance in an address Thursday night before the congregation of the Pine Street Presbyterian church in Harrisburg, now celebrating its 85th anniversary.

"America," said the governor, "is the only great country in the world where a congregation could peacefully assemble as we assemble here tonight. How long we can peacefully assemble is in the hands of Almighty God."

"The biggest thing in the whole world at the present time is where we can have free worship. America is one country that can have free worship. Yet how little we appreciate it. How few people take time out from their duties to serve God."

"Our forefathers were God-fearing men. After World War I we became selfish. We looked to bodily comfort rather than spiritual comfort. Then in the thirties we became fearful, fearful that food and clothing for our bodies couldn't be obtained. We forgot spiritual needs."

ASPARAGUS BEETLES

Two small beetles attack asparagus, the common asparagus beetle which is blue-black with orange markings, and the 12-spotted asparagus beetle which is reddish orange with six black spots on each wing cover.

The larva or grub of the common asparagus beetle is dark gray with black legs and head, which distinguishes it from the light velvet or brown larva of the other species. The eggs of the common asparagus beetle are laid singly on end along the tender shoots, while those of the 12-spotted beetle are laid singly but are attached at one side. Both species have two generations annually, each of which occupies a period of 30 to 40 days. The insects overwinter as adults.

Most severe injury is caused in the spring by overwintering adults which attack young shoots just as they are coming through the ground. The larvae and adults feed on the plants throughout the season, often deforming the succulent tips so badly that they are not marketable. If the insects are allowed to breed uncontrolled throughout the summer, the amount of spring damage will be very severe.

Summer feeding by either species is likely to stunt the growth of the plants and lessen the vitality of the roots. The larvae of the 12-spotted asparagus beetle do little damage to the crop as they feed within the berries.

A satisfactory control practice is to cut the tips as early and as frequently as possible to prevent the development of slugs from eggs which may be deposited on the young asparagus. A few plants left as traps during the cutting season will attract the insects. If later the tops are removed and burned, the infestation will be materially reduced. Poultry ranging over the patch will destroy many of the grubs and beetles.

The larvae may be beaten from the foliage and the soil cultivated immediately afterward. If the soil is hot, many of the larvae will die. Use a pyrethrum spray or dust at the manufacturer's recommendations or a rotenone dust or spray on the spikes if the patch is not large. A dust composed of calcium arsenate, 1 pound, and talc or hydrated lime, 5 pounds, may be used on the foliage in summer after cutting is over.
